IN MEMORIAM

Edward Samuel Greenbaum, one of the truly perceptive lawyers of this century, a dedicated Princetonian and rightly described as a "Crusader For Justice," whose death this weekend brought to many a deep sense of personal loss. A resident of this community since 1951, this 80-year old humanist — with a divine sense of humor and a remarkable understanding of the things that separate men from one another — was in the eyes of one a "wonderfully ethical individual with what today seems an unusual devotion to the principles he believes in, to the demands of his profession and to the 'outside activities' all must accept responsibility for."

Obituaries, particularly in New York City and Washington, recalled how Greenbaum had come to the assistance of a client he had never known, Svetlana Alliluyeva, Josef Stalin's daughter. Brought into the case by his Princeton friend, diplomat George F. Kennan, he flew to Switzerland in the spring of 1967 "to meet a client whom he had never seen but who consented, sight unseen, to put her fate into his hands." The upshot was an agreement with Harper and Row, the publishing-house Greenbaum had represented with distinction in the once seemingly interminable dispute with President John F. Kennedy's family over the highly controversial William Manchester volume, "The Death of A President."

Publicity and pressure were two elements of life meaning little or nothing to Greenbaum, called "The General" by his friends on the basis of his U.S. Army service in two World Wars and, to the end, remembered for his founding of the great New York firm of Greenbaum, Wolff & Ernst. Over the decades among his clients were New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, "The New York Times," the Downtown West Small Business Survival Committee, the magazine "The Nation," the Farmers' Union and the American estate of the bankrupt Kreuger & Toll enterprises in 1933. His governmental assignments included headline-making undertakings on the presidential, state and municipal levels.

Widely known in Princeton for his key, but quiet, role in the founding and development of The Friends of the Princeton Public Library, and an active trustee of the Institute for Advanced Study (1951-1969), Greenbaum was once described by a career-long associate as "the most versatile lawyer I know." In the opinion of a partner of more than a half-century's standing: "'The General' tries cases. He argues appeals. He does family counseling, corporate work, administers estates. Today, when every one is a specialist, you'd have to call him an old-fashioned lawyer. He can tackle almost everything — and often does!"

Some 25 years ago, in receiving the country's Distinguished Service Medal, Greenbaum was cited for "his extraordinary ability" to manage "complex, highly important matters of infinite variety with a quick and sure hand." Since then Greenbaum, a member of the Williams College Class of 1919, served as an alternate American Delegate to the United Nations where he succeeded in getting the General Assembly to approve the calling of free elections in South and North Korea. A worker throughout his life for court reform, Greenbaum, the father of two sons (a physician and a civil engineer) was a founder of the Jewish Big Brothers and was ever an influential voice in the American, City of New York and New York State Bar Associations.

For serving without thought of any personal reward under seven Presidents of the United States, for his lifelong concern for what he termed the "best interests of all of us," for stirring memories of the "greats" in this Nation's legal traditions, he shall long be remembered — and loved — by his fellow Princetonians.

TOWNSHIP CHIEF RETIRES

New Police Ordinance Passes: Township Committee passes the new police department ordinance by a 10 to 1 vote. Monday night, James A. Floyd abstaining and Thomas Hartman absent, voted to accept the ordinance before the state. Police Chief James Campbell informed Mayor John D. Wallace and Committeeman William L. Wilson that he would retire, effective July 1.

Mr. Campbell, who was Township Police Commissioner, said later that there was no relation between passage of the ordinance and Chief Campbell's retirement. The chief has been consistently firm in his opposition to the measure.

A key provision of the ordinance is that the police chief is to report to the Township Administrator. Chief Campbell objects to this.

Mr. Wilson said discussions on the chief about his retirement began last summer. Chief Campbell has accumulated a considerable amount of leave and Mr. Wilson and Committee have worked out an agreement where the chief will re-enter inactive status July 1. He will remain on the Township payroll until December 31.

Opposition Unanimous: Every member of the township committee at Monday night's public hearing was opposed. Seven letters also opposing the measure were read into the record. Each writer spoke warmly of the need for a police department and its chief.

It was the chain of command feature of the ordinance that was the focus of objection, although the law has been passed.

Opponents included the Police Committee consisting of the mayor, the administrator, to act as an appeal board on disciplinary matters.

Mr. Wilson, explaining the ordinance, said it grew from the recommendation of the consulting firm retained to study the organization and administrative procedures of the Township force.

"It is outrageous for a police chief to be subject to the orders of an administrator," he stated.

Mr. Wilson, explaining the ordinance, said it grew from the recommendation of the consulting firm retained to study the organization and administrative procedures of the Township force.

"The police chief has no au-

SCHOOL'S OUT! For the kids, anyway. But administrators work on a 12-month contract, and the first day of school is just another day in the work year for staff members like Superintendent Philip E. thority," he said, pointing out that he, as Commissioner, is not available because he is the State New York City Commissioner, he remained the audience, have full time jobs elsewhere, whereas the Administrator is always on hand.

Also, Mr. Wilson continued, the Township Police Commissioner has never been clarified. The new ordinance says so, the Commissioner is liaison between Township Committee, through the Administrator, to the police chief.

Mr. Wilson said that still has. Mr. Wilson emphasized "complete authority" on technical police matters.

After several members of the audience had repeated this theme, that the chief should be responsible directly to an elected official and not to a "civilian" appointed by Mayor, Mr. Wilson said anyone who wished to speak, No one did, so he closed the hearing.

But Mr. Floyd turned to Chief Campbell, who had not spoken, and said, "I'd like to hear what the police have to say."

Chief Campbell said he supported the chain of command change and was giving the state-of-the-art answer to an "ambiguity between me and an elected official," he stated.

"I'll discuss policy with the administrator, but when the decision is made, I want it to be mine and I'll be responsible for it."

Det. Pauli supported the chief's statement. "If we've been doing great for 20 years why change?" he asked.

The vote came quickly. Members of the audience who had heard nothing but opposition to the measure, were stunned into silence by a quick vote of approval, and there were some cries of protest.

Mr. Floyd did not explain publicly his abstention. Later, he thought the ordinance should be studied more. People don't understand it, he said. "They opposed the whole thing carte blanche when all they really opposed was this chain of command but the ordinance was grossly misinterpreted."

In a statement Tuesday, Committeeman Dean Chase said the members of the committee had studied longer and with more intensity by Committee than the police ordinance. Every member of Committee felt that an already fine police department deserved to be protected and utilized its full potential by the organization.

changes included in the ordinance. There has been up to now, no clear definition of the roles of the police administration, the police commission, the mayor, and Committee ... This organization confusion is a weakness that needs correction for the good of each member of the police department and the residents of the Township.

Commenting Tuesday on the vote, Chief Campbell said, "I don't think it's a bad idea. I've never seen anything like this before, where the feelings of the people were so blatantly ignored. I could see it in favor of the ordinance, but those at the meeting were 100% against — not one person spoke in defense. I can't understand why they didn't have held it over or delayed it."

Chief Campbell said that after the survey, he was told that

You're Invited to Talk About Princeton High

Next Wednesday, June 24, at 8 p.m. in the Community Park School Library, the new "Open Forum" will gather for the second time to talk about Princeton High.

Curriculum will be the subject. A group of about 10 volunteers from the community will be present Monday to block out a structure and format for next Wednesday's meeting.

Princeton residents, under and over the age of 21, of all persuasions in regard to Princeton High, are invited to attend.

Forum meetings have been scheduled for alternate Wednesdays throughout the summer, and such matters as Princeton High School structure will be discussed, as well as curriculum.

At the first regular meeting last week, Steve Margolis of the recently graduated PHS class of 1970 served as chairman and will be present again.

About 40 persons attended, including parents, Princeton High faculty and students. Mr. Magee, Mrs. J. Stuart Hunter and John Dwyer were among those who spoke. Everybody men and women who have now graduated came to the meeting and stayed until the end to stay with the group and continue to talk about the high school.

Principal Florence Burke and Associate Superintendent Eugene Bringer have been invited to attend on Wednesday evenings whenever they can.

Parents from different sides of the high school question said, after the first meeting, "You know, we really aren't that far apart."

he Administrator Joseph R. Nini, Mr. Wilson and attorney Gordon Griffin would draft the ordinance.

"But I was never consulted," he said. "It was just laid on my desk."

Mr. Nini said that work began on the ordinance early in April when both Mr. Wilson and Chief Campbell were vacationing. He said the draft copies were sent to the chief, who was asked to comment and suggest changes. With each subsequent draft, Mr. Nini said, the chief was asked for suggestions.

The chief also charged that Mr. Wilson is too busy to be police commissioner and is trying to pass off the job to the Administrator.

Members of the police force have expressed opposition to the chain of command provision of the ordinance as individual; however, the PBA — Princeton Men's Benevolent Association — has taken no formal stand.

Mr. Nini, as administrator, has received formal comment from the chief, he said. "This is a good police force, well-trained and well qualified individuals, from the chief right on down, and I don't foresee any major changes in the operation of the department," he said.

BACK TO ZONING BOARD

For Princeton Inn The next chapter in Princeton University's long-slow story a the Princeton Inn to a dormitory will be added to the book this Thursday at the meeting of the Township Zoning Board.

On the Township side of the line the University is seeking variances. Originally, there were enough parking spaces, but when the University decided to construct an addition, parking areas were gobbled up by construction plans so that only about nine spaces were left.

The University hopes the Township will make part of the Faculty Road parking available to be counted toward the needed spaces.

Also on the zoning agenda will be a request to straighten out street parking regulations at 182 North Harrison Street. The American Red Cross wants to buy the property from Dr. Howard Unangst. Dr. Unangst, with his wife, is applying for a special permit to operate a hair industry (sewing classes) at 350 Franklin Avenue, Anthony D. Nini, State Road, is asking for permission to make a house trailer into a permanent office.

PHS STUDENTS GRADUATE — Paul S. Marks, left, and other members of the senior class at Princeton High School stayed away from Thursday's commencement exercises at Harris Field rather than follow the custom from the principal's office that traditional caps and gowns must be worn by graduating seniors.

Two of the three student speakers used sharp words against the school and its administration.

James Phox, president of the class of 1970, said he and his classmates had obtained an "honorable discharge" from the high school and society."

Referring to the directive on caps and gowns, he said, "The most important thing is to create people in our class are ones who elected not to be here," and he charged that these students were "neglected" and "repressed" by the school.

"Those who are right against the school or are pre-programmed into conformity," he said and he concluded, "It is hard for people in Princeton to admit they have failed. A high school cannot remain basically unchanged for 30 years and keep its relevancy."

An $1,800 — Marion Sturges, a class substitute, said she was sorry more graduates hadn't stayed away. She referred to caps and gowns as "ostentatious, uncomfortable and unnecessary," and added, "They and just the class a total of $1,800 at a rental of $4 each. "Please, Miss Burke," she said, "don't give the class a pre-packaged and unmeaningful graduation next year. Let the students plan it the way they want it."

The valencedresser, Naomi Lewin, urged abandonment of labels and "stereotyped images." "In the controversies at the high school this year," she said, "I've seen too often the hate that the use of a blanket label can cause. It's much easier to hate a group of people

She cited "hippy," "greaser," "jock," "bum" and "pig" and "shortsighted" labels.

McPherson "Rocked" before presentation of diplomas superintendant Philip E. McPherson, the audience, student speakers have rocked me — as other students have. The world is different from what it was at other commencements, and he spoke with pride of the "strength of many students I'd looked forward to shaking hands with."

The superintendent told the audience he wanted to join the "new generation" with John Marks, school board president; Florence Burke, newly-appointed principal, and the people of the community "in the common purpose of public education for the students," he said.

"I've learned more from you than from any students I've ever worked with, and I shall not forget you."

In reference to this spring's rumpus in the Princeton schools, the Rev. Norman H. Nuding, of the Board of Missions, Lutheran Church in America, said in his invocation: "We have allowed ourselves to be drawn into camps of opposing extremes . . . teach us how to live with each other."

VALLEY STILL OPEN

Action Postponed. The permanent closing of Valley Road, Route 206, was set aside Tuesday by Committee Monday night and the state can sort out its detailed figures and come to a decision.

The two-week experimental closing left state highway patrol somewhat red-faced. Traffic back-ups on Mt. Lucas, Witherspoon, Terhune and Cherry Hill weren't at all what state officials had in mind.

They argued they wouldn't install a traffic light at Route 206 and Terhune unless the Township closed off Valley.

Neighbors on Scott Lane and Spruce Street Extension, east of the project, had gone to court against the plan. Unfilled developments on the project and the Borough Zoning Board and former Borough Planning Board.

The neighbors have 16 days to appeal. If they do not, construction could start next spring, following basic grading this summer, according to the developer's attorney.

WORK STOPS - BRITILLY

At Sheehan Building, A stop work order from the Borough halted construction for a few hours last Wednesday on Tim O'Brien's $1.5 million dollar office building on Nassau and Marlboro Roads.

But Mr. Sheehan hurried to Superior Court, and Judge John Fritz granted him a temporary injunction against the stop work order. The judge stipulated, however, that Mr. Sheehan must correct soon the three violations that caused the Borough to halt work on the structure.

Mr. Sheehan hadn't provided the required concrete tests for the foundation, he was found guilty, showing how the underground garage is constructed and he didn't have shop drawings.

On Monday, he provided the corrected drawings, according to Borough Engineer Donald T. Haneey. By mid July at the permanent injunction hearing he must show elimination of two violations. Judge Fritz told Mr. Sheehan to make a good faith effort in preparing shop drawings. The builder said he would have to find a new structural contractor to make detailed drawings.

TWO ARE ARRESTED

For Heroin. A 19 year old Borough youth and a 15 year old Township girl were arrested yesterday by a Borough police who charged them with using heroin while in Princeton Cemetery.

John R. Stritch, Jr., Green, was arrested in Metuchen, Union County, last in default of $6,000 bail awaiting a hearing Wednesday afternoon in Borough Court. He has been charged with possessing the drug, being under the influence of the drug, possession of a hypodermic.

The girl, charged with being under the influence of a narcotic, was released to the care of her mother.

Police responded to a 6:17 p.m. call which reported the use of heroin by two people. Ptl. Anthony Rainfome and Ptl. Gerald Patterson made the arrest.

On LSD Trip. A 17 year old drug offense, a 17 year old juvenile delinquent, a prostitute has been charged with being under the influence of LSD.

He was picked up shortly before 4 a.m. Tuesday by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli. He was found in a sedan after he had been placed in a strait jacket. He was not admitted, however, as is usual in most such cases according to the police.

Police were summoned by a motorist who found the youth, half-naked, lying on the hood of a Nissan Street and had flopped on the hood of his car. He stopped the youth when they began to walk east on Nassau. He was later located in the same area a few minutes later by police, uninjured but incoherent.

Police report that the youth told them he had a relative in the Princeton area. He was found in default in Borough jail. His parents planned to come to Princeton after being contacted by the police.

last week from a parked car and the Cannon Club.

George L. Amacher, of Sarasota, Fla., told police that men's clothing valued at $465 was stolen from his car during the weekend while it was parked in the Palmer Square lot between Nassau and State Streets. Police said that a wire device had been inserted to open a vent window of the locker car.

Edwin J. Hall, 28, was victim

NIGHT CLERK ASSAULTED

In Nassau Inn. A night clerk at the Nassau Inn was assaulted by a youth at 3:40 Friday morning while on duty behind the counter.

Victim, Jesselyn Cox, 63, of Trenton, was knocked to the floor and suffered bruises of the face, police said. Her attacker, described as a young, dark-skinned male, took two paychecks but no cash.

Several other youths were seen running from the Inn at the time by a night porter in the bushes.

The initial investigation was made by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli; Ptl. Timothy Huizing is continuing it.

THEIF NABBED

Through Dropped Notebook. A dropped notebook left behind after the entry of a Ridgeview Road home last week led to the arrest the next day of Terry Brown, 22, of Princeton.

Brown was arrested by Sgt. John Petrone and Ptl. Howard Sweeney in his car in the same area. Armed with a search warrant, police found an electric cigarette lighter and a knife in a break-in in Lawrence Township and a packet of marijuana. Brown was charged with possession of stolen property and was held without bail.

He was sent to the county jail in default of $1,500 bail to await a hearing July 1 before Town ship Judge Burton Peskin, who ruled, while investigating the defendant's name and car registration, had been found by the victims who turned it over to the police.

Police saturated the area the next day on the assumption that Brown would return and try to retrieve it.

Charged with Larceny. Ralph Leon, 21, a resident of the kitchen at Princeton Inn, was charged with larceny Friday morning by Ptl. David Potts. Ptl. Potts ordered Leon to open the trunk of his car, after which he found a coat, a shirt and a dirty shirt and jack on the floor of the car. Inside the trunk, police said, were two tires and wheels and a battery still. Leon's car, owned by James E. Robinson, 102 Jameson Drive.

Leon faces a Township hearing on July 1.

SCHOOL STAFF SPEAKS

To Board of Education Representatives. "We'd like to end the school year on positive note," commented Mrs. Ruth Randall, president of the teachers' association, during an informal meeting with the press on Tuesday.

The 13 member executive board of the Princeton Regional Education Association, and the 21 member Administrators' Association presented a brief letter to the Princeton community this week (see "Mailbox") expressing the desire of teachers and administrators to "create a school system where there is honesty and something of value for every student."

L. Wesley Johnson, principal of John Witherspoon School, and president of the Princeton Regional Schools Administrators' Association, joined Mrs. Randall in amplifying the ideas in the letter.

Both emphasized that although teachers and administrators represent many points of view on education, "there is tremendous dedication, and concern in finding better ways," to help kids," as Mrs. Randall expressed it.

Dr. Johnson pointed out, for example, that teachers prefer traditional ways, with teaching built around the subject matter of the course, and the teacher himself directing the instructional process. Other teachers, he said, believe that teaching may be more effective when the pupils themselves play a more active role as "agents in the learning process."

"But even in the first group, you'll find a questioning," he emphasized.

"Nobody deals more with school children on a day-to-day basis than teachers and administrators," Mrs. Randall said. "I don't think the public realizes how profound today's

A BREAK FROM THE FETE: Teenagers at the Hospital Fete Saturday found the area near the Rock Marathon Tent a convenient place to relax and listen to the music of the bands competing inside.

Fele Flourishes Under Sunny Skies

Perfect weather brought what must have been a record number of people to the 17th annual Princeton Hospital Fete Saturday. Although no official tally was recorded, local officials estimate that more than 40,000 strolled around the grounds during the day.

Much of the food and other items were sold out by early afternoon, and at 2:30 the huge parking lot was briefly filled to capacity. At times it looked as if all 40,000 had come.

Mrs. Dorothy Dabrowski, a nurse in the clinic at Princeton Hospital won the car raffle. The "Pal Outlook" captured the grand prize of $150 at the Rock Marathon, with "Fug-Toad," second; and "Blue Crystals," third. Special mention goes to Peter "The Monkey" "Empty-Less West" for his extraordinary ability on the drums.

In the department of miscellaneous statistics there were 2,000 pony rides, 5,000 fire engine rides, 4,700 cotton candies consumed, 32 cases of strawberries bought, and countless children reunited with parents.

A final tally of the receipts will be released later.

A FIRST AT PRINCETON: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Boals, 72 Witherspoon Street, became the first husband and wife ever to receive Princeton degrees at the same time. Both were awarded Ph.D. degrees at the University's 223rd Commencement.

Topics Of The Town
COUPLE GRADUATE

At University Commencement, Princeton University, which handles its first undergraduate degrees to women this June, experienced another first in its 223-year history, when it awarded Ph.D. degrees to Gordon and Kathryn Boals, the first husband and wife ever to receive them together.

Both Phi Beta Kappa and summa cum laude graduates in their baccalaureate years and both with Princeton M.A.s, the couple met at the University three years ago during a reception for graduate students. They were married in a University Chapel a year later.

A native of Washington, D.C. and a 1964 graduate of Denison University, Gordon, 27, is an assistant professor of economics at Rutgers, where he is finishing the first year of a three-year appointment.

Kathryn, 26, born and raised in North Easton, Mass., and a 1965 graduate of Smith College, is completing a year as a lecturer and research associate in politics at Princeton, and will enter upon a three-year appointment as an assistant professor in the fall.

An alumnus of Georgetown Preparatory School, Gordon credits "fine instructors" at Georgetown for steering him toward teaching, and opportunities to teach while a student at both Denison and Princeton for strengthening his conviction that he would succeed in the profession.

The young, bearded, self-described activist feels that traditional economic theory is little related to society. A group to which he belongs is composed of people devoted to trying to change the focus of economic research, so as to tackle "more relevant types of economics . . . relative to such social problems as poverty and economic discrimination."

Mrs. Boals, who attended North Andover High School before Smith, at one time thought about law school. The decision to teach was made at Princeton, after a year in Egypt on a fellowship, and followed after instructing part-time at Rutgers. Her Princeton Ph.D. in politics was accompanied by a certificate in Near Eastern Studies.

Active in NOW. Active in the women's liberation movement, she belongs to NOW (National Organization for Women) and the Professional Women's Caucus, among other groups, and feels strongly that major curricular modification and other academic areas are prime responsibilities to be tackled in the education of women. This interest may lead her into educational administration.

The Boals consider their careers to be equally important, and agree that women should be encouraged to follow lifetime careers. "Getting married," observed Mrs. Boals, "is a ridiculous reason to drop out of school."

With the pressures of Ph.D. requirements now behind them, Gordon and Kathryn are looking forward to "a quiet, peaceful summer" in their Princeton apartment, getting ready for fall, reading, and perhaps taking trips to the beach.

And, when they are not involved in academic pursuits, both are often found playing tennis. Mrs. Boals is a prominent player; she a "junior master" and he several ratings above, a "senior master."

NEW PROGRAMS SET
For Summer Playground Fun. The Princeton Recreation Department Summer Playground Program will begin this Monday for the next eight weeks. The program offers a wide variety of activities for children six to 16 and is free to any Princeton resident.

In addition to the games and contests always offered at each playground, an arts and crafts specialist, a music specialist and story tellers will visit each area once a week. The programs will also include special events such as the playground olympics, both local and state competitions in the tournament of champions and trips to Shea Stadium and the Philadelphia Zoo.

95TH BIRTHDAY NEARS

For B. Franklin Bunn, Princeton's most tireless public servant. B. Franklin Bunn observes his 95th birthday next Wednesday, June 24, at Merwick.

Mr. Bunn, manager of the Princeton University Store for 30 years, had an active role in the Princeton Borough and Township governments from 1913 to 1965 as mayor of both municipalities. He is the only man to serve both Princeton in this fashion.

Wednesday's birthday will be comparatively quiet, with Mr. Bunn spending the day with four other New Jersey guests this Friday's Birthday of the Month party. Now confined to a wheelchair, he enjoys visitors and joins the daily gathering for tea in the Merwick library.

He began working for Princeton in 1913 when he was appointed to the Borough Board of Health. Five years later he was elected to Borough Council and served in the ensuing years on every Committee. He was Council president for four years and in 1927 was Borough mayor.

When he moved to the Township, Mr. Bunn was elected to the Township Committee, serving from 1940 to 1950, including seven terms as Committee Chairman, or

HODFELLER CRASHED

For Saving Man's Life, New Jersey Bell Telephone has awarded an company citation to William A. Hodfeller, 30, of 14 Chestnut Street, for saving life of a Princeton man who had been trapped in a burning building.

Mr. Hodfeller, a member of both the Princeton Fire Department and the First Aid Squad, responded to a fire call last Friday at 29 Bank Street where he learned that James Bowley was trapped on the east end floor of the Mazing building.

Firemen entered Mr. Bowley's who attempted to safety stop, breaking a safety and Mr. Hodfeller immediately began administering artificial respiration techniques until the men began breathing again.

Mr. Hodfeller saved the man's life, said Chief William A. Heisey of the Princeton Fire Department in a letter to the telephone company.

Mr. Hodfeller, Jr., has had more than 20 years of service with New Jersey Bell Telephone in the company's Trenton suburban district plant department as a splicing foreman.

AN EXCHANGE OF LETTERS WITH DR. GOHEEN:

President's Room
Princeton University
Princeton, New Jersey
June 8, 1970

Mr. Joseph M. Boyd
152 Alexander Street
Princeton, New Jersey 08540

Dear Mr. Boyd:

I am responding to your open letter of June 2, 1970 and the advertisements appearing in Princeton publications the week of June 1, 1970.

Princeton University will have its consultants available for full and open discussion of their recommendations at a public meeting of the Regional Planning Board.

We have taken the step of publishing our consultants' proposals well in advance of the public meeting so that all parties can come to the meeting with prior knowledge of the plan. Both we and our consultants will be prepared to answer questions raised at that time.

We hope you will be patient with us until we have an opportunity to explain the complex community and university issues contained in the proposals.

Sincerely yours,
Robert F. Goheen

Dr. Robert F. Goheen, President
Princeton University
Princeton, New Jersey

Dear Dr. Goheen:

Thank you for your prompt and courteous response to my letter to you of June 2nd.

In this letter, I suggested to you two economical alternatives to your consultants' published proposals for a very costly and disruptive realignment of University Place and Alexander Street.

Naturally, I was disappointed to find nothing in your response which suggests any willingness on the part of Princeton University to discuss any proposals other than its own for development of the Alexander Street area.

When your representatives finish explaining these proposals, I hope they will have the patience to listen to suggestions and opinions your neighbors may have to offer regarding the most appropriate locations and functions of Princeton's various public thoroughfares.

Sincerely yours,
Joseph M. Boyd

Let's Pool Our Efforts.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I should like to express my whole-hearted agreement with a statement by Mr. Philip Crukshank made last Tuesday night at the public meeting of the School Board. I do not often agree with Mr. Crukshank on matters pertaining to our schools and education in general, but I was so taken aback by his comments that I am afraid it got lost among the more dramatic happenings that night.

In voting on the appointment of Mrs. Florence Burke as principal of Princeton High School, Mr. Crukshank suggested something like this: that our school board of this generation will probably not only survive but will choose its own leaders and young men and women to represent them. He also said that we are forgotten.

Tribute to Dr. McPherson.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following letter is being sent to Dr. Philip McPherson, Superintendent of the Princeton Regional Schools.

Many of us who live or work or go to school in Princeton have been greatly impressed by the past few weeks. Your courage and your vision of a better future for our children have helped those among us who have had some official talk about freedom and self-determination.

It is difficult to see how, in the short run, great changes can easily come in Princeton. Big changes, though, need to be made.

Should the generation now growing to adulthood be better or worse than that of their parents? Princetonians of this generation will probably not only survive but will choose its own leaders and young men and women to represent them.

New Reporting System Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to clarify a statement I made at the June 13 public meeting of the Board of all of us who have been so deeply and bitterly divided on what has been little more than a closed question and try to pool our efforts in working on solutions.

During the discussion of the new reporting system proposed by Dr. Marks, in response to the request of Mr. Garrett, I read a lengthy letter from Dr. Paul Cheshire, Headmaster of the Hinsch School. The essence of his argument is that the Pass-Fair system of grading would not be at all adequate in his evaluation of applicants for the High School.

Although I do not agree with everything in Dr. Cheshire's letter, I did agree completely that a Pass-Fair system would be inadequate if that is not the most important thing to be considered.

It is in fact, I was made quite clear throughout the discussion that the most important thing to be done is to make the High School a real Middle School.

In fact, it was made quite clear throughout the discussion that the most important thing to be done is to make the High School a real Middle School.

I am delighted to find this common ground with Mr. Cheshire. I hope we can enlarge the area of our agreement.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

There is nothing the communists like more than to read that the YWCA, a Christian organization, is supporting the President of the U.S. in these very difficult days.

Haircut Prices, Debated.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In reference to a statement recently made by Dr. William J. Baumol, Professor of Economics at Princeton University, I find it very interesting to note just what is true about the hair-cutting service industry.

I agree that it is cheaper to buy than to repair old ones. But your knowledge of the barbershop business is very poor. I believe that even an clever economist can judge the specifics of this industry. You say the barometer of rising service costs is the haircut. Has the cost of this service always continued to rise steadily as you predicted or is this a figment of your imagination?

Ten years ago a good barber's price was $1.00 for a man's haircut and 50 cents for a woman's.

Today we have to keep up with modern equipment, rising costs of rent, supplies, taxes, etc. You complain that you have to pay more for a haircut. Your valuable time has disappeared to you to find hours in the day when you could be served immediately?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is an open letter to the Princeton community from the Executive Board of the Union Unipour Concrete Pool Association (the Princeton Teachers' organization) and the Princeton Regional Schools' Administrators' Association.

We are united in our desire to keep our school system where there is opportunity and something of value for every student. As educators, we understand that to achieve this we must create a school system that is both opportunities and something of value for every adult who serves the schools.

We approach the coming school year with a commitment to building such a school system and with confidence.

To the Editors of Town Topics:

It was refreshing this past week not to hear retarding and complacent comments of significant and trivial suggestions which seem to flow from the pens of members of the Princeton Junction Neighbor hood Association in ever increasing frequency. The original concept of the association that seems to have been lost along the road to Town Hall.

It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Windsor Township Committee meetings that the main objective of this association appears to be kept secret. It is had enough influence to hold a meeting after letter after letter from this association. But when the content of these letters offers little more than the most part trivial suggestions one begins to feel disgruntled.

League Backs a Housing Law.
 To the Editor of Town Topics:
 The following letter has been sent to Mayor Robert W. Casley and the Borough Council and to Mayor John D. Wallace and the Township Committee by the League of Women Voters.

MRS. ROBERT DANIELSON
 President
 MRS. STAHL BERGER
 Housing Chairman

The League of Women Voters of the Princeton Area supports the proposal of the Joint Commission on Civil Rights for a local fair housing ordinance. We believe that a local ordinance will have a number of advantages not possible under existing state and federal fair housing laws. Among these are:

1. It will clearly show the community that its governing bodies are deeply interested in ending discrimination.

2. It will serve to enlighten public opinion on an existing problem.

3. It will simplify the handling of alleged discrimination cases. It will provide a relatively easy method for a community to state its case, without undue psychological or emotional difficulty.

As a result of our studies, we have the following suggestions for your consideration:

1. A local fair housing ordinance should cover at least the same types of housing and areas of discrimination as the New Jersey law.

2. The complaint should have a choice of taking his complaint either to the local Court or the Joint Commission on Civil Rights.

3. I have signified the feasibility of including penalties for refusal to buy or sell a house or apartment.

ment while a complaint is pending.

The League has, in the past year, had several occasions to file complaints with the New Jersey State Division on Civil Rights. Because the Division is understaffed, it cannot adequately handle the numerous cases of housing discrimination that are brought to its attention.

We believe that it is desirable to have a vehicle for handling cases of alleged discrimination at the local level. We hope that you will give serious consideration to the joint civil rights committee's proposal.

We have copies of various local fair housing ordinances in effect in other communities which we will gladly make available to you.

Cordially, Welcome.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

For some three years I have flown my country's flag from the railing antenna of my car in the United States and abroad, which have taken me from Texas to Maine, during which my car had been parked in hundreds of different communities. My flag has never been disturbed.

One week ago, I drove from Texas to Princeton to attend my 50th reunion and parked my car on Broad Street. I was called an un-American and a Red by a number of old friends. When I came out sometime with about a five year old mentality, who had never been taught respect for his country's flag or for the rights of others, had cut my flag.

I have known Princeton for 34 years. I lived here for several years and have come back many times since. I am a brother, a son, and to visit my son who lives here and was planning to settle down here myself, but if this is at all typical of the attitude of Princeton to the American flag, I am beginning to have doubts.

BUSINESS In Princeton

PARKING IS TIGHT

So What's News? We'd like to hear more about the new city zone about traffic and parking," said Borough Mayor Robert W. Castley this week in light of a Chamber of Commerce statement that the downtown business leaders are "all hurt business in the downtown area."

"I think the Chamber feels the doubled fine from $2 to $4 is appropriate in the fact that no one can ignore solutions to the parking problem are in view," the mayor continued.

He said that a traffic circular about planning parking subcommittee of the Princeton Regional Planning Board has been appointed to study and unravel the traffic tangle.

The committee has met once, and it hopes to settle in this fall for some hard work. The mayor said Committee members are Arthur Margolis, chairman; H. Edward Bresce, William Sulphur, Norman Williams, Hans K. Sander, Mayor John D. Wallace of the Town ship and Mayor Cowley.

"The parking problem is interrelated with public transportation," Mayor Cowley said. "The mini bus question for example might be in investigating further."

He said that summer interns from the Department of Community Affairs will make a county wide survey of bus riders and mini bus users, and Princeton will pass along some of this information.

"We're so used to traffic problems in Princeton that people don't get worked up about the parking problem more," the mayor observed, "but we'd like more citizen comment."

Shaver & Company, architects for the new school, have designed a one-story structure with clusters of open and semi-open classroom spaces for both high school and younger students.

Classrooms, equivalent to 24 standard classrooms, surround a central library/instructional media center. Space dividers allow the areas to be rearranged quickly for varying teaching methods, Dr. Hadden said.

Science class areas are in a circular wing, with physics, chemistry and biology sections dictated off like pieces of a pie.

Instead of traditional corridors, the school uses "commons" areas. Above the library/media section are mezzanines with individual carrels for student study and teacher planning.

An auditorium seating 600 can be divided into a 300 seat "little theater" plus two separate 150 seat instruction areas.

DRIVER SEES RED

When Parking Space Is Stolen, The driver, driver and owner, driving and parking, enjoy parking space can be more precious than jewels.

And when a space that one has been waiting for is stolen right from under his eyes, the results can be explosive — as was the case last week in the Witherspoon Street parking lot.

The 100 space hook contains many useful tips on housing Medicare, securing income savings, medical care and other topics designed to help people who are retired or are planning for retirement.

The book, which is being sold in bookstores and newsstands, is now available free at Princeton Savings and Loan Association, 19 Chambers Street.

IN WESTERN PRINCETON TOWNSHIP — A HAPPY FAMILY HOUSE

2½ acres on a quiet, shaded circle of ten elegant houses, is the setting for this authentic traditional colonial. A large center entrance hall opens to sunken living room with fireplace and 9' ceiling, warmly paneled study with fireplace and bar, formal dining room, family room and screened porch overlooking the lawns. There's a wonderful kitchen with yards of counter and cabinet space and two lavatories, one for children and one for guests. Upstairs, there are 4 bedrooms, 2 baths and a master dressing room. Expandable third floor. 2 car garage with adjoining all-purpose rooms. A fine buy at $99,500.

FLAWLESS NEW HOUSE

If there is anything the matter with this house in terms of plan, design, construction, down to the smallest detail, it escapes us. Really, this is the most perfect newer house we've ever offered. Its exterior merits are quite visible, but inside, it's even more of a joy. A handsome entrance hall floored in black and white vinyl opens to spectacular living room with fireplace, study with fireplace, formal dining room, and delightful, big sunroom, which for parties, opens through sliding glass to both living room and study. The kitchen is a dream and the adjoining family room with its beamed ceiling and huge fireplace will be the scene of many family gatherings. There's a ground floor laundry and powder room. On the second floor, up both front and back stairs, there are 5 double bedrooms (including a more than spacious master) and 3 full baths. On a lower level, there's a paneled recreation room with fireplace and adjoining full bath. Three car garage. An absolutely beautiful house. Frankly expensive, but well worth it.

IMPULSE HARDEST TO RESIST? "Spend money," says Peter Lamantina. "Food, practically anything I eat," says Maryellen Birdt. Both are residents of Cranbury.

Question Of The Week

Question: What impulse do you find hardest to resist?

Where asked: Around town.

Peter Lamantina, Piney Branch Road, Cranbury, student: I don't have much money, but if I do I find it hard not to spend it, usually on trivial too.

Maryellen Birdt, Rockey Brook Road, Cranbury, student: I find food very hard to resist. Practically anything I eat.

Dennis Jeffries, Monroe Street, law student: I don't know if I have that problem, to tell the truth. I manage to exercise pretty good control of myself.

Mrs. Donna Crookford, Cranbury: To quit my job and just never come back.

Linda Mattei, Trenton, teletypist for Princeton Information Technology, 32 Nassau, Eating coffee we cream.

Ingrid Pope, Trenton, telepist for PIT: Dieting.

Jacob Garvin, 51 Leigh Avenue, porter at the Princeton Hospital: To get up and go to work in the morning.

Sex, Girls, And . . .

The replies to this week's question are not wholly accurate because the most popular ones have not been included. They are "Sex," "Girls" and "What I want is to get laid." Surprisingly, the anonymous TOWN TOPICS inquiring reporter was half-expecting to tell people like you who ask silly questions to get lost never surfaced.

Mickey Borina, Princeton Pike, ninth grader: I find it hardest to resist looking for the dirty magazines my father gets like Playboy.

Lynn Fleckenstein, Cedar Brook Terrace, student: Turkey Taffy.

Karen Espinoza, 110 John Street, third grader: Not to do my homework.

Tina Reff, 9 Hamilton Avenue, third grader: Not to come home when my mother calls me. I have this impulse all day long.

Chili Moore, Park Place, photographer: Getting up in the morning.

Ayles Browne, Carter Road, employee, Wine & Game Shop: Butter-side sunbathes. I love them even though they are fat tanning as hell.

Evelyn Pictures, Valley Park, travel agent: On summer day like this I want to just take off for the shore and sun bathe.

Jeremy Clark, 28 Mason Drive, fifth grader: To read Playboy.

A WALK IN THE SPRING RAIN: Anthony Quinn and Ingrid Bergman are the middle-aged lovers in the romantic drama at the Garden this week.

News Of The THEATRES

PINTER, SHAW & CO.

Summer Guests: The McCarter Theatre Company, which will open a four-play repertory series next Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre with a Tennessee Williams play.

The opening play will be followed by Synge, Pinter and Shaw in that order.

The Williams offering is "The Crone" or "The Nightingale," written as a substitute for "Summer and Smoke" because Williams wasn't happy with the play.

Williams' "The Nightingale" was a far better work but "Summer and Smoke" was already a hit, so the substitute was buried in the playbill.

For Williams' "The Nightingale" will be directed by Daniel Berneswitz, who did "A Man for All Sea sons" and "Happy Times" this year. "Eccentricities" will play June 25, 26, 27 and July 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11.

The second play, due on Thursday, July 2, will be J.M. Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World." The Irish comedy classic will be directed by Brendan Burke, who is something of an Irish comedy classic himself, having used his Irish ancestry to good purpose as actor and director at McCarter Theatre. The Synge will play also on July 3 and 4 and 16, 17, 18 and 19.

Next comes Harold Pinter's "The Homecoming," which will give Princeton audiences a chance to compare the Summer Intime production with McCarter's forthcoming version this coming season. The Pinter play will be given July 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37 and 38.

Bernard Shaw's "Candida" will be the final repertory play of the season for Intime. It will be directed by Geoff Peterson, one of the founders of Summer Intime three years ago.

The resident company has been expanded this year to 50 members, all of whom are alumni from 1969: Richard Williams, Deborah Savadore, John Gormley, Giulia Pagano and Andy Bloch.

Newcomers are Mr. Berko and Mrs. Peterine Intime, who hasn't been around the scene before: William Hockings, who played Ahab in "Moby Dick — Rehearsed"; Alice Hayes, who was in the McCarter company; Mark Capri, Richard Ferrugio and Bill Baird.

Subscriptions are available by mail or through the box office. Theatre box office. Information may be obtained by calling 452-8181 after 10 a.m. daily.

14 FILMS AND SPECIALS

Summer Program: A series of 14 feature films, a children's play and a folk concert have been scheduled by Summer Intime and other special events will probably be announced as the season progresses.

Mondays and Tuesdays at 8 p.m. will be film night. Showings will be in McCormick 101. The first will be "Wait Until Dark" (1967), scheduled for Monday, June 12. Other films already signed up are "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" (1962); "The Last Hurrah" (1958); "Cleopatra" (1963) and "Hell's Angels" (1930). —Continued on Next Page

IT'S NEW

To Us

We wondered happily into the Danish glass section where there seems to be no limit to what is offered. In flight, Studio Twelve, tucked away in the cherry blossoms, give to goblets, pit trays, ashtrays, the woman who browses forCombine a cocktail pitcher glass that have a card with one of the trays and you quality. John and Richard Carlson have filled the shop with chum, glassware, lithographs, objects d'art, and a miscellany of things that are sure to bring a smiling smile to your face.

For lovers of the sea, a sea gull in flight across a porcelan dinner plate, rimmed in blue, is a $1.50 find. The fish is a deep blue fading into a soft blue-white. (By Bing & Grondahl, $10.50 pc. setting.)

Or, continuing white porcelain, Royal Copenhagen, with delicate tracings in blue, a set of four matching plates and a tray ($13) or a pair of white plates with classic sculpture rims, a high-fired surface designed to take hard wear.

Barney Bright is a sculptor discovered by the Carlsons. You will find him in minutes perched on polished stones. And sleek, gleaming purposes from the California Artisan House.

For Valentine, you may just know just what you'll find at Studio Twelve. Caswell Maysey's cologne is something to try. There are nine fragrances to choose from. ($1.50).

And nearby are the Ridge and the Howard Miller of Michigan clocks: a rose wood music chest, fine inlaid with a soft white chiffon ($165); or a freight driven wall model with the fascinating wheels and gears in full view behind the glass. There's also a shiny chrome radio and a belt.

Brush up on your French with the amusing black and white cheese plates and cheese servers. On each is a desecration of a variety of cheeses on French, with a hinting of the source black, a goat or different kinds of ewes. The service tray is circular with a central spiral handle.

Matching these, and still in French, a ceramic coffee pot with the handle at right angle to the spout for easy pouring ($10). The color accent is orange on white.

The greatest change at Studio Twelve since we were last there is the new collection of signed lithographs, all mounted and framed, that are mounted on the walls. "Portofino" by Ba boulle, No. 13 of a series of 12, is a lovely view of the Riviera ($10). Other are by Caron, Chabane, Du IV, Moshe Gati, Dahl. Themed out are "Pisces," "Theo," an abstract, "Dadig," "Sir," "A Doge," painted by Marie Laurinian in 1941.

Just beyond the lithographs we came upon great sheets of boutique paper — perfect for wrapping a special gift or Town Topics, Princeton, N. J., Thursday, June 18, 1970

An American journeys into his Scottish past

writes:

"The Scottish clan that I belong to—or would belong to if it were now anything more than a sentimental myth—was broken a great many generations ago by a party of MacDonalds, who hunted down the last chief of my clan, tied him to a standing stone, and shot him. The standing stone was on Colonsay, a small island in the open Atlantic, 25 miles west of the Scottish mainland. All that I knew about it was that it was one of the Hebrides, in the islands of Argyll. So I took my wife and our four young daughters and went to live for a while on Colonsay.

"The islanders, for the most part, are crofters and farmers. The laird, fourth Baron Strathcona, is the least popular man on the island he owns. The usual frictions, gossip and intense social espionage that characterize life in a small town are so grandly magnified on Colonsay that they sometimes appear in surprising form, in the way that patches of skin magnified a hundred diameters may appear to be landscapes of the moon. Air and water, sea and sky, life is imploded upon the people here by the blue bottle that surrounds them."

"A beautiful portrait of a richly textured but threatened community...one of McPhee's best pieces of writing."

In Hawaii, printed patio slippers with ruffled bags, and colorful thong sandals with a cushioned sole ($3.75). All are mite size.

Something else that the children will like: the latest knit — with the alligator embossed, the same as their mother's." Miss Burnett adds holding up a small shift. The size ranges from 3 to 6X and 7 to 14; the price ranges from $16 to $18.

Bellows has a special department for the teenagers you may be pleased to learn. It copes with the tastes of the girl who's not quite ready for the big jeans sizes. It's a spin-off of a couple of years. A young clothes bought specially for her: a short dress in a grey-and-white stripe touched with yellow. The sleeves are puffed and the shoulders and cuffs are lined in velvet. It is an easy-care polyester cotton, perfect for travel.

Mrs. Gertrude Fraser is in charge of the infant section. She has a special first-aid kit. And bags that young mothers will want to investigate. There's a separate, zippered bag for soiled diapers that tucks inside.

For male infant clothes, you'll notice an accented London bobby's helmet on a drip dry diaper set for a little boy. Along with enchanting little dresses and overalls for the toddler, are amusing gingham poke bonnets in soft blue with a long, loose tie band ($2.50).

For dealing grandmothers to give, expectant mothers from the 19th century to the 20th, and trimmings with lace, and unusual dolls and toys. A doll collector age 8 or 9 will love the little wooden dolls.

PRINCE

Boys In The Band (now playing) is a new adaptation of the hit off-Broadway play by Mart Crowley. It deals with homosexuality, although the playwright's treatment of his material is too lightweight to distract from the plight of the homosexual.

Funny lines come so fast they almost trip over each other in the five acts. The ensemble apartment scene, the host who is honoring the 32nd birthday of a mutual friend. The festive mood changes as an uninvited guest arrives — the old school chum who has been getting increasingly drunk, are coerced into a "truth" game in which they must call up some of their loves in secret. The part. Reactions to old loves, old lusts and old regrets turn the film from comedy to melancholy drama.

The ensemble acting of an amateurish effort can't mask the stage show is directed by Kenneth Nelson as the heat with the tongue of an adder.

Loving (now playing) is a keenly drawn portrait of married life.

The couple front and center, played by George Segal and Eva Marie Saint, is typical yet unique. The director of the film is a big account. He uses the potential employers with a ghastliness covering desperation. She seeks to hold the increasing guilt with her husband with an unceasing effort to make ends meet. He drinks too much, she dangles her hopes of a new house in front of him.

There are funny sequences running through the film with their two immature children, the long party that climaxes the film. Segal is caught, thanks to the closed circuit television system of his hot�ok, being a bit of a scoundrel's wife. His comment to his furious wife is that everybody will have forgotten Saturday night by Monday morning.

GARDEN

A Walk in the Spring Rain (now playing) Here is a film dedicated to the theory that people over 40 can still enjoy life, and it's a right and obligation to do so.

The spokeswoman for the older generation is Ingrid Bergman, who has probably aged more gracefully than any other actress in the history of the screen. Although she is the most passionate lover in his age class in films today, is her partner.

Miss Bergman is cast as the widow of a history professor with a grown married daughter and a grandson. She lives comfortably in Manhattan until her husband takes a sabbatical to write a book in Tennessee. It is there that Miss Bergman meets Quinn, an earthy and good going farmer and handy man who romantically pursues her.

The film ends on a melancholy note, but it shies away from pathos. Quinn gives his most resounding performance and Miss Bergman acts with all the long-allowed beauty and charm intact.

ART In Princeton

UPSWING IN ART

Spring Street the Scene. The future of art in Princeton clearly is a most exciting one. Combined with the arrival of three new galleries in the area is a recent critic for this column. Yvonne Burk.

Your present writer is sorry to be leaving the gallery scene but delighted to be leaving this column in such capable hands. Mrs. Burk and I are collaborating on this column.

Together we wandered through the other galleries on our around Spring Street. In our conversation with the various owners, we found an enthusiastic feeling that the galleries complement and strengthen each other.

There was a desire on everyone's part to make Spring Street a really unique and aesthetic experience for those who venture there. Meetings are planned to implement this objective plan, and next fall will find a new showcase for the art patrons of Princeton.

Four in a Cluster. The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, The Eye for Art, The Drawing Room and The Artisan comprise this cluster of fine enterprises just west of Palmer Street. The Princeton Gallery is fortunate in obtaining quarters on Spring Street also and plans to stay for the cultural atmosphere.

Gallery 100 is currently showing some excellent works by French artist Marvin. They exhibit the powerful design indigenous to the media.

The rhythmic movement of the hands and tools in "The Jewel" give a kind of quality to the print. Other fine examples of this graphic form are "The Sewing of the Love Dress" and "The Town on the March".

Mrs. Fleurette Faus' Hall Bookshop is where you can buy all of the gallery's offerings on buying trips this summer that will include all of Europe and Alaska.

The art forms they will view will range from prints at Friedland's Attic to 17th century Dutch paintings from "The New School" in Ireland, in collections of old fabrics and jewels by Alena Dostalova in Czechoslovakia. The net result should be fine viewing in the autumn for Princeton art lovers.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

"NADJA" by Barbara Kwasniewska is an etching reminiscent of sculpture, currently on view at The Eye for Art. Numerous other exhibits in the Spring Street area are reviewed here.

Arabic Art Revived. recently showing an exhibition of 19th century French drawings and watercolors. Among this of ancient Arabic art artists represented are Rosa Bonheur, Jean Baptiste Camille Corot.

A pencil drawing on matte paper by Baron Francois Pascal Simon Gerard is especially fine. The delicate touch of the pencil is evident in the style of Baron Dominique Devon is executed with humor and affection. This delicacy of line combined with the liveliness of the flick of lively pencil strokes in the hair and sideburns make this work stand out as a prime example of its kind.

Also at The Artisan are two silk screen prints of superior quality. Kitechnichen's "Antelope" and Gerard Lange's "Follow Me" a clean, hard-edge design with silver forms of chrome mylar added by hand.

The Eye For Art offers an unusual treat by Bridget Condra. Excerpts from the Bible in English, German and French are depicted by original watercolor prints presented in individual folders. These deserve careful study and are well worth the effort.

"Nadja" by Barbara Kwasniewska is an etching of great beauty. It is composed by simple, curvilinear forms reminiscent of sculpture. The pink flesh tones are of the human form and are silhouetted against a striking background of bitter red.

The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art is showing a portfolio of ten original lithographs by the German artist Paul Wunderlich. He has had numerous exhibitions in Europe and New York and ranks with the great graphic artists Germany has produced.

His work is permeated with a surrealistic dreamlike quality that invites critical analysis. In the lithograph, "Behold, thou art fair, my beloved, yea, pleasant; also our bed is green, a pleasant atmosphere prevails." The balance between rounded forms and delicate linear areas is unusual.
